was set here this evening by rapher, still going at 7:46 a. m., had the record of 77 hours and minutes credited to Miss Rose at the same hall. Miss Smith

TWO WITNESSES
TESTIFY TO ALIBI
FOR COLBECK

His Business Partner and an Undertaker Say They Were With Him at Time Fixed for Robbery.

LAWYER ALSO WITNESS FOR HIM

Stress Laid on Fact That Defendant Is Minus Thumb, Not Mentioned by Man Who Was Robbed.

William P. Colbeck, Egan gang leader and member of the Democratic Club Committee, had only two witnesses in his effort to establish an alibi to offset Ward S. Ireland's positive identification of him as leader of a gang of robbers and safebreakers who gained access to Ireland's residence on Natural Bridge road, near Pine Lawn, under the guise of being prohibition enforcement agents, and won a safe.

The defense rested its case this afternoon in Circuit Judge McElhin-ney's court at Clayton.

Colbeck's alibi witnesses were his business partner, "Redeemer" Joe Gonnella, and George Wagner, an undertaker, of 2621 Olive street.

Testimony of Gonnella.

Gonnella testified that on the night of the robbery, July 23, 1930, Colbeck was at the roof garden, which he jointly owned, at Delmar boulevard and Euclid avenue.

Wagner testified that about 11 o'clock the night of July 23 he went to the roof garden to collect a bill from Gonnella, and that Colbeck was there. He said he, Gonnella, and Colbeck sat at a table together until 12:35 a. m. The time of the robbery had been fixed by Ireland at 12:30 o'clock that night.

In cross-examination, Wagner admitted his attention was called to the date he was at Gonnella's place by Gonnella after Colbeck's arrest, and that he had no independent recollection of the date. He said, however, he was satisfied that was the time he was at Gonnella's.

Other Witnesses for Robison.

Gonnella also testified in behalf of Edward (Chippy) Robison, also an Egan gangster, who is jointly charged with Colbeck.

In addition to offering alibi witnesses, the defense is seeking to discredit the testimony of Ireland, the only witness who identified Colbeck and Robison as two of five robbers who entered his home in the guise of Federal prohibition enforcement officers.

In his attack on Ireland's testimony, the defense first placed on the stand Thomas F. Cooper, who gave his address as 15A North Seventh street. Cooper was a childhood friend of Colbeck, and formerly was an employee of the defunct Blue Bird Manufacturing Co. of which Ireland was president.

Cooper testified that after Colbeck's arrest, Ireland asked him to sign a statement, and that he, Colbeck, told him that if he would pay Ireland $14,000, Ireland would not prosecute him. He said he took this message to Colbeck, that Colbeck told him to tell Ireland he was not implicated in the robbery and there was no occasion for him to sign anything. He gave that message to Ireland, he testified.

Says Cooper Made Proposal.

Ireland on cross-examination, had been questioned about his conversations with Cooper. He denied he had ever approached Cooper with any proposition, but said that Cooper had come to him with a proposal of that character which he refused. He told him came from Colbeck.

Edward Fleming, 1407A Franklin avenue, formerly employed in the Indiana Internal Revenue office, and now employed by the Barrington Tire Co. in which at one time Colbeck owned an interest, testified that he and Colbeck roomed together, from April 1, 1930, until the latter part of November, that year, at 932 North Lawrence avenue.

Gold Badge Disappeared.

His appearance as a witness seemed to be to account for the gold-plated badge which detectives found in Colbeck's room, after his arrest, and which corresponded to a badge which Ireland testified Colbeck wore at the time of the robbery. Fleming testified the badge was one he used as a revenue department employee. He said it disappeared about the time of Colbeck's arrest.

John Thomas, a coal miner of Herschel, Ill., testified Robison was in St. Louis the night of July 23, 1930, and that they were together there several hours in the evening, and that he met Robison again in Herbin the next day. They did not, he testified, meet November, he said, when Robison told him of the charge against him and asked him if he remembered that they were together the night of July 23.

Mr. Effie Ashley, 1003 South Fourth street, testified she had a house in Johnson City, Ill., No. 1124, and that Robison boarded there from July 2 until August 1. She said he was in her house each morning and that her inspection of the rooms each morning showed her that Robison's bed had been slept in each night.

tween traders.

Up $2 Per Hundredweight.

In the course of the Government's investigation, it became known today, President Harding and Assistant Attorney-General Seymour have been in repeated telephone conversation with Daugherty at Asheville.

Officials here will not discuss in detail the possibility of criminal action against those held responsible for the present price levels, but it is said that close contact will be maintained with the court proceedings in New York and every effort made to protect the interest of the public.

The Attorney-General's bill declares that as a result of fictitious transactions, the price of raw sugar and the price of refined sugar to the consumer has been increased, since Feb. 7, on an average of more than $2 per hundredweight; that these operations were carried out for the purpose and with the intent of unduly enhancing prices, and that unless the court intervenes, new fictitious levels will be forced in the future.

The alleged conspiracy is declared in violation of the Sherman antitrust law and other statutes of the Federal Government and contrary to the public policy of the United States, as well as harmful to the interest of the people.

It is asked that writs of subpena be issued requiring the defendants to appear and answer for themselves and for others they represent, but not under oath, the allegations contained in the petition. A hearing on the injunction request is asked for within 10 days, and it is requested that the defendants be perpetually joined from maintaining and operating the exchange and the association in so far as they deal in, or purport to deal in, sugar, and from establishing hereafter any similar organization whose operation affects the price of sugar.

In addition, the court is asked to enjoin perpetually the defendants from publishing in any manner any prices for raw or refined sugar as purporting to represent the market price of the commodity.

Supply Situation Favorable.

The statement is made in the Government's bill that, during the period from Feb. 1 to the present, the production of cane and beet sugar in the United States and the association throughout the world in relation to available stocks of raw sugar has been more favorable than at any time within the last three years.

Production of cane and beet sugar for 1931-32, the bill says, "was approximately 1,000,000 tons greater than in the preceding year and the estimated production for 1932-33 is 221,000 tons more than for 1931-1932."

The Commerce Department, it is said, had estimated the 1932-33 world production at 19,000,511 tons, an increase of 1,800,000 over 1931-32.

The Government points out that it is making no complaint against the exchange and the association in regard to their operations in any other commodity than sugar, but adds that any decree issued should be without prejudice to the right of the Government to institute proceedings to regulate trading in other things should it be found desirable later.

It is estimated in the bill that every advantage of one cent per pound in the price of refined sugar costs consumers in the United States approximately $2,000,000 a week.

THREE MEN AND BOY
ARE KILLED BY TRAINS

Wheels Pass Over Leg of Lad, 8, Playing Near Tracks—One of Deaths at Granite City.

Two men and a boy were fatally injured by trains here yesterday and last night, and a man was fatally injured in Granite City.

James Bioch Jr., 8 years old, 1408 South Vandeventer avenue, was playing near the Missouri Pacific tracks at Talmage avenue at 4:45
p. m., yesterday, when he was run over by a freight train. It was said that he attempted to hop on the train as it passed. Wheels passed over his left leg, below the knee, necessitating amputation at the city hospital. This and other injuries caused his death there at 1:25 a. m. today.

Lee Brewer, 45, of 2124 North Twelfth street, Washburn railway repair man in the Humboldt avenue yards, was coupling air hoses in a freight train at 8 p. m., when the cars were backed. He fell and the truck of a car crushed him to death.
The body of a workman, torn almost into shreds, was found scattered for nearly a mile along the Missouri Pacific tracks in Carondelet this morning. He had worn blue overalls, and the initials "H. S. B." were in his cap. He appeared to have been about 40. Fragments of the body were taken to the morgue.

The badly mangled body of a man was found at 4 a. m. today on the Overland Railroad, right-of-way two miles east of Granite City. He appeared to have been about 35, and of medium build. He wore an army swater, dark trousers with a small light stripe and no coat, and had a signet ring, with the initials "J. L.
M." on the third finger of the left hand. A gold watch, crushed, was found near the body. The body is being held at Granite City.

DIVORCED AND
WEALTHY WIDOW

Joe Fuerst, Former Head of Defunct Motor Sales Company, Borrows Clothes
From Friends.

Just to look at Joe Fuerst you wouldn't think there was much about him to attract a pretty girl who has lots of money. But after you have talked with him a little you'll understand how it is he bellows
"Lo, Mike," at the traffic cop, and gets a smile and a wave of the hand from a dozen or so persons as he goes down the street.

Joe, who is the Joseph E. Fuerst, St. Louis, who, on a $175 judgment in alimony in gross, took everything in sight, leaving Joe in pajamas and bed, served to remind him of his winning ways.

The reason was that on Dec. 7, last, Joe's wife, Mrs. Norma Fuerst, got a divorce. With the divorce came the information that Mrs.
Fuerst wanted to recover $12,000 she states she put into the financing of the motor sales company.

"I notice Joe says he was paying that back to me," she said today.
"Arthur Walsh was buying my stock and paying me $250 a month for it.
He had paid me $1750 when the company went into bankruptcy. Joe never put a dime into the company."

Mrs. Fuerst is again Miss Norma Stokes, and again resides with her father, A. L. Stokes, president of the St. Louis Oil Co., at 6525 Waterman avenue, University City, who has opposed her marriage. She alleged in her petition for divorce, which was not contested, that Joe became violent at times, beating her in public.

Romance Began During War.

The romance of Joe and Norma began back in 1917, during the war, when Joe was running a taxicab service company at Hamilton and Delmar. "I had three cars running, and I met Norma when I used to drive her and her friends around town," he said. "We became good friends, and married in May, 1918.
We lived with my mother-over on Easton for a while, and then moved over on Delmar, 3611 was the number."

Joe says he is broke now, that the deputies took all his clothes, including the change in his pants pockets and his watch.
"But I've got lots of friends," he adds. "I'm going to keep right on going, too. My friends will stick with me. My first wife died when my boy was not yet 2 years old. My mother died a short time back. Now

AUTOMOBILES NEEDED TO CARRY CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO CLINICS

ONLY 19 of the several thousand members of the Automobile Club of Missouri have volunteered use of their automobiles for the task of carrying crippled children to the clinic of the St. Louis Medical Society on next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Volunteers will be asked to serve on the morning or afternoon of one of the three days or longer if their cars can be spared.
At least 100 automobiles will be needed and William King, manager of the Automobile Club, is urging owners to respond for this task. Telephone messages should be to Mrs. Bates at Bo-mont 3150.

This trouble piles up. Believe me, I've caught plenty. But it won't stop me."

Joe is going to get married again.
"I need somebody to take care of the youngster," he explained. "He's just 9 years old. And so I've decided to marry again. She's a wealthy widow, though, and will make a good home for the boy, I think."

The motor sales company failure is explained by the former president as due to the activities of a third person—George J. J. Mackay, who lived in St. Louis as George Kennedy. He was arrested March 5 and taken to Cleveland to answer a charge of embezzlement.

"Say, he had us eating out of his hand," Joe says. "He had a personality, that fellow. We turned the management of the company over to him."

Former Wife Wants Money.

"Norma wants her money back.
Well, she put that cash into the company, and when it failed, she, as any other stockholder, lost. We were capitalized for $25,000. She only put $5000 in, with a sister, and we gave them the $12,000 in stock for their money. That's fair enough, isn't it?"

"I put $12,000 into the venture myself," she repeats. "I later offered to sell out for $6000, and Walsh agreed to take my stock for that price. As I said, he had paid me, at $250 a month, $1750."

Norma and Joe separated last July.
Both agree they were not suited to one another.

Joe is now selling tires. He says he is "flat broke," but, with his friends, will have no trouble in making a go of it. He is rather short, heavy set, or, perhaps, it might be said, rather fat, his bespectacled visage bearing a grin over a florid complexion that, with his jocular speech, recalls a Cobb-like reflection of humor. He is 29 years old.

Back From Two Years in Europe.

Oscar Leonard, formerly superintendent of the Jewish Educational and Charitable Alliance of St. Louis, returned to St. Louis Tuesday evening, after a European trip of two years, most of which was spent in Rumania. While there he represented American banking institutions and charitable societies.

COURT EVIDENCE TO GO TO CIRCUIT ATTORNEYJudge Landwehr Orders Check on Testimony Given in a Title Case.A transcript of testimony given in Circuit Court yesterday by Fred A. Yann, manager of a Kroger store at St. Louis avenue, and held.win street, will be submitted to the Circuit Attorney by Judge Land-wehr, who, after investigating certain matters, pointed out discrepancies in Yann's testimony.
In testifying in a suit brought by his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A.
Keeshin, against George M. Benson for alleged fraud on the part of Benson to convey title to a house at 2825
St. Louis avenue to the Keeshins, Yann stated that he carried $6800 when he accompanied the Keeshins to the Benson home to close the deal.
"Where did you get the money?"
Judge Landwehr asked him.
"It belonged to the company, but I was at liberty to use it," replied Yann. He continued that $4500 ofthe amount represented what had been taken in at the store from Dec.
28 to Jan. 2 last, and that the remaining $2300 was cash that he had on hand at the store with which to conduct the business.
Judge Landwehr ordered an examination of the store's accounts and later a district manager for the Kroger company, after checking the books, reported that the gross receipts at the store for a whole week, including the dates mentioned by Yann, were $1900.
Keeshin, in his testimony, said nothing about Yann having money to close the real estate deal at the time they called upon Benson. Benson contended that the Keeshins had not complied with the terms of the purchase contract. The suit was taken under advisement.GOLTRA BARGES SEIZED BY COL. ASHBURN DOCKING HERETo Remain Pending Decision. Following Action Authorized by War Department.
The first four barges of the Goltra fleet, which was seized by Col. T. Q.
Ashburn March 25 and later ordered returned to the jurisdiction of the Federal Court here, arrived at the docks of the Mississippi-Warrior River Service at 1 a. m. today from Cape Girardeau. The barges were brought in by the tugboat Nokomis.
Thirteen barges and four tugboats, the remainder of the fleet, are expected during the afternoon. They will be docked part at the foot of North Market street, pending decision by Federal Judge Paris.
Col. Ashburn seized the fleet fromEdward Goltra, Democratic National Committee member, on War Department orders and took it down the river to Cairo, Ill. Judge Paris ordered their return. The War Department has held that Goltra forfeited hiscontract rights by failure to use his fleet.
Time Limit on Kansas Bonus.
By the Associated Press.
TOPEKA, Kan., April 19.—June 30, 1919, was set as the last day for which Kansas will pay its dollar a day bonus to veterans of the World War. This was decided by the State Bonus Commission in executive session. Under this ruling Kansasans are eligible for the State bonus from the day the United States entered the war until June 30, 1919. It was pointed out by Secretary of State Frank J. Ryan, however, that a former service man may appeal to the courts for further bonus, and if able to convince the court that he was in service later than June 30, 1919, not of his own volition, the supplemental bonus will be issued upon court order.Bank Robbers' Sentences Confirmed The Illinois Supreme Court has confirmed the sentence of the St.
Clair County Circuit Court in the cases of Claude Bernero, Edwin Cramer, Peter McCann and Leo Hildebrand of St. Louis, who were convicted of robbery in the holding up of the Duplo State Bank at Duplo, Ill. They were convicted last May and are now in the Chester (Ill.) prison, serving sentences of from 10 years to life.

TWO SONS TO BE PALLBEARERS AT BISHOP'S FUNERAL

Son-in-Law and Three Grandsons of Rt. Rev. Daniel S.
Tuttle Also to Serve at Obsequies.

THREE BISHOPS TO ARRANGE SERVICE

Several Hundred Seats at Cathedral Tomorrow Will Be Open to Public—Two Hymns to Be Sung.

The two sons, one son-in-law and three grandsons of Bishop Daniel Tuttle will be active pal-bearers at his funeral in Christ Church Cathedral tomorrow afternoon, it was announced today. This arrangement was requested by Bishop Tuttle some time before his death, which occurred Tuesday afternoon at his home, 74 Vandeventer place.

The sons are Dr. George Marvinne Tuttle, St. Louis physician, who attended the Bishop in his seven weeks' illness, and Arthur L. Tuttle, building engineer, living in Mexico.
The son-in-law, husband of a deceased daughter, is Stanley Ramsey of Cincinnati. The grandsons are Arthur L. Tuttle Jr., William Ramsey and Wallace Tuttle, son of Dr.
Tuttle.

Other arrangements for the funeral, including assignment of different parts of the brief funeral service in the Cathedral, will be determined at a conference tonight of Bishop Frederick F. Johnson, Bishop Tuttle's successor; Bishop Thomas E. Gailer, president of the executive council of the church; and Bishop William C. Brown of Virginia, chairman of the House of Bishops.
Bishops Gailer and Brown are to arrive this evening.

The funeral is considered not a local but a national affair, and for this reason the arrangements will be passed upon by representatives of the house of bishops.

Body to Lie in State.
The period during which Bishop Tuttle's body will lie in state before the altar of the cathedral, it was announced today, will be from 10 a. m. until 12:30 p. m. At the latter time the church will be closed until it is time to seat the congregation for the funeral, which begins at 2 p. m.

The funeral will be open to the public, up to the limit imposed by the requirements of safety. Seats are to be reserved for the clergy and diocesan committees, but these reservations will leave several hundred seats.

The Bishop's throne, of white marble, at the left of the altar in the Cathedral chancel, has been draped in black. The large flag of Great Britain, France, Italy and other allied nations, which were hung in the pews in wartime, are still in place.

The funeral service is expected to consume less than half an hour.
As has been told, the conclusion of a funeral sermon is in accordance with the Bishop's request. The bishop, clergy and choir will enter in a long processional. Two hymns will be sung. "For All the Saints, Who From Earth's Labors Rest," and "Lead Kindly Light."

To Follow Prayer Book.
The prayer book order of funeral service includes Scripture readings, the Lord's Prayer and other prayers.
The Scriptural selections begin with the words from the eleventh chapter of the Gospel of St. John, "I am the resurrection and the life, saith the Lord; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." The lesson is from the first Epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians, which includes the passage, "Death is swallowed up in victory. O death, where is thy sting?
O grave, where is thy victory?"

The burial ceremony in Bellefontaine Cemetery will be open to the public, instead of being private, as announced previously.

To prevent interference with the funeral cortege, Locust street, between Twelfth boulevard and Fourteenth street, and Thirteenth street, between Olive and St. Charles streets, will be closed to general traffic from 10 to 12 p. m. tomorrow. As was told yesterday, Mayor Kiel has requested that flags be displayed at half-mast throughout the day.

Memorial Service Plans.
Plans for a future memorial service, which will be the occasion for the formal addresses not permitted at the funeral, will be discussed by Bishop Johnson with the visiting Bishops. The time for this meeting, whether on a Sunday or a weekday, and the place, whether the Cathedral or a larger auditorium, have not yet been determined.

Messages from Bishops, clergymen, and friends of Bishop Tuttle continued to arrive at the residence and the Cathedral office today. The Bishop Carroll M. Davis, former dean of the Church Cathedral, now secretary of the Church Mission Board, has arrived from New York.
Some of Bishop Tuttle's friends recalled his custom of writing letters to those who had suffered loss by death. In one such letter, shown today, written in the Bishop's fine script, the word "home" was in capital letters. He wrote, "God mercifully have us in His keeping, and bring us to the one HOME with Him at last."

Perhaps the last writing of Bishop Tuttle was a paragraph prepared shortly before his illness, and printed in the Easter number of the Church News, diocesan paper. He wrote, "The queen of days is Easter.
She comes with the spring, and new life with her. She points back to a tomb whose door of stone the Lord threw down. She points forward to the everlasting green of a garden where no sepulchre is. All hail, blessed Easter! The Master fought for thee and won. He wills thee to us for an heritage, and we thank Him and are glad."

Memorial Services for Bishop Tuttle in St. Paul's in New York.
NEW YORK, April 19.—Memorial services for Bishop Tuttle were held in St. Paul's chapel, Broadway, Fulton and Vesey streets, yesterday. As a young theological student, Bishop Tuttle taught a Sunday school class in St. Paul's and later became superintendent of the school.

WOMEN TO BE GIVEN VOICE IN DIRECTION OF DEMOCRATIC CLUB
Feminine Party Members Allocated 10 Places on the Board of Governors.
Democratic women of the city are to be given 10 places on the Board of Governors of the newly organized Missouri Democratic Club, as the result of a decision reached yesterday by men members of the board, who were elected Tuesday night when the club was formed at the Washington

Hotel. The club was formed as the nucleus of a proposed city-wide Democratic organization.
Seventeen members of the Board of Governors were elected Tuesday night and these men met yesterday in the office of former Judge Henry S. Priest to discuss organization work. The proposed membership of the board is 25, and it was suggested that two withdrawals be obtained, in order to give 10 places to women. A meeting of Democratic women is to be called in a few days to elect the 10 representatives.

ANOTHER RADICAL TO TRIAL
Ruthenberg Charged With Violating Michigan Syndicalism Law.
By the Associated Press.
ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 19.— Both the State and the defense in the trial of Charles E. Ruthenberg of Cleveland, charged with violation of Michigan's syndicalism law, were limited to one peremptory challenge each as selection of the jury entered its final stages today. The State used its third peremptory challenge just before adjournment yesterday.
William Z. Foster, first man tried under the Michigan law against syndicalists and who is waiting retrial, the jury having disagreed, has arrived here.

Foster's $10,000 bond, under which he is at liberty pending retrial, was reduced to $5000 with consent of the prosecution in order that the extra $5000 may be posted as bond for John Melille, another of the defendants waiting trial.

famous Pathe star, in some great picture. How "crazy" he seems! Far from it! In private life and in his preparation for his great successes he is one of the best-read young men in America.

What makes Harold Lloyd stand out from the crowd?

SEE Harold Lloyd in one of his big, wholesome, sidesplitting comedies, and you will say:
"Thousands of young men had as good a chance as he had. How has he become America's favorite? What is his secret?"
You will find the answer when you know what Harold Lloyd does in his spare time.
Visit him and look at the books he reads!
In his private library, for one thing, is Dr. Eliot's five-foot shelf of books.
Books of this kind, wisely selected, have made Lloyd's mind as agile as his body.
Why not decide today to profit from your reading hours? Why not say: "From now on, I will give my mind a fair chance to grow. I will read only the books that will build me into a successful man or woman—the books that have proved their building power in other lives."
You can do it if you will.
Your reading problem has been solved; the solution is contained in a free booklet that every ambitious man and woman should own. It is

CHANGE IN CLIMATE

Weather Bureau So States Despite Assurances That Winters Are Milder Than Formerly.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The path is undergoing no general change of climate.

Despite repeated assurances that winters are gradually growing milder, the bureau at St. Louis says the average

the United States Weather Bureau declares there is no evidence of a progressive change of climate.

The fact that the last two years have been unusually mild in most parts of the country has provoked many assertions that winters are becoming warmer, bureau officials say, but records can be furnished to the country. Records have occurred when for a few years the weather has seemed warmer or colder than at other times in the past.

THREE JURORS
CAUSE MISTRIAL

Men Favoring Acquittal of Merchant Refused to Argue Evidence, Foreman of Body Says.

Three jurors who stood out for acquittal and who, the foreman said, refused to argue the case with the other jurors, caused the first-degree arson case against Morris Steinbaum of 3428 North Nineteenth street to result in a mistrial yesterday in Cir-

Steinbaum was accused of setting fire on the night of Aug. 28 last to the first goods store he conducted at 3428 North Nineteenth street.

The foreman, Harry L. McDonald, a paper agent for the Southwestern Express Co., residing at 4322 West avenue, explained Judge Grimm that three jurors showed the jury "hopelessly" hung after it had considered the case three hours. He told a Post-Dispatch reporter later that on each side of the case there were three jurors who refused to argue the case

BODYGUARD FOR SLAIN EGAN GANGSTER DIES

Martin Wilson Was Wounded
Feb. 25 While Acting as Watchman for "Little Red" Powers.

Martin Wilson, alias "Jim Smith," died last night at Alexian Brothers Hospital from bullet wounds suffered Feb. 25 when "Little Red" Powers of the Egan gang was shot and killed by enemy gangsters in retaliation for the assassination of Jacob J. Mackler, lawyer for the "Jelly Roll" Hogan gang, which was at war with the Eganites.

Wilson was employed as watchman at "Belvedere Joe" Gonnella's resort at Olive Street and North Groby roads, St. Louis County, and was acting as bodyguard for Powers, a part owner of the resort, who, realizing that he was a marked man, had Wilson watching him while he (Powers) was asleep.

As has been told, three men entered a shack at the resort where Powers was sleeping at 2:30 a. m., and began shooting. Wilson, who had been reading a magazine, re- turned the fire but was incapacitated when three bullets struck him. Two went through his left arm and one through his right thigh. He was be- lieved to be recovering until about a week ago when blood poisoning developed.

Wilson was known at the resort as "Jim Smith" and gave that name when taken to the hospital imme- diately after the shooting. When the initials "M. L. W." were found on his shirt and collar he said he was Martin L. Wilson, 49 years old, but refused to give any further infor- mation concerning himself.

His fingerprints were taken and broadcast by the police, but up to the present nothing further has been learned as to his identity. At the time of the shooting he was ques- tioned by the police as to whether or not he had helped set a trap for Powers. He also was asked if he had not purposely admitted the gun- men to the shack. He pointed to his wounds and laughed.

HOPES SHE CHOSE OWN CHILD

Mother Makes Selection When Infant Is Mixed With Others.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
WARSAW, April 1.—One Polish mother will wonder all her life whether she is bringing up her own child, owing to an unfortunate ac- cident which happened at a mat- ernity home in Lower.

A woman gave birth to a healthy boy, but the baby returned to her after it had been bathed, proved to be a girl. A search was ordered, but the finding of the right baby was not an easy matter, as the moth- er could not recognize her child from the six boys and three girls born that day. She chose one of the boys as hers, and hopes she chose rightly.

Large Meteor Falls in Russia.
Correspondence of the Associated Press.
TSARITZAN, Russia, April 1.— One of the largest meteors ever seen in Russia fell recently at a point near the village of Karnovsky, 56 miles from Tsaritzan. It pene- trated the earth to a depth of about 15 feet, making a hole considerably more than a yard in diameter.

Bulgarian Priests Forbidden to Bat-

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
SOFIA, April 1.—The recent fash- ion of giving children fantastic names, drawn for the most part from the novels of Maeterlinck, Hansun and other writers, as well as the names of heroes of the com- munist revolution in Russia, has grown to such an extent that the church has forbidden priests to bat- tize infants with such names.

HADLEY WRITES OF IDEA OF OUR GOVERNMENT

Noters Should Exercise Influence by Going to Polls, Former Governor Says

St. Louis, Mo., April 18.—The security of our Government must depend on the strength of our institutions. The strength of our institutions must be measured by the manner in which the individual citizen performs his duty to the State. I make these statements in full realization that our system of government is undergoing a vigorous, though sometimes an ill-considered, attack by those who deny the correctness in theory and the success in practice of our representative democracy. In the many reactions which we have suffered since the war, which was to make the world safe for democracy, there is none more surprising than the doubt that has come into the minds of many thoughtful people as to whether democracy is or can be a safe and effective form of government for the world.

Feeling of Voters.
To many citizens, Hadley asserts, comes a sense of inability to influence government.
"They come to feel that it does not make any difference whether they vote at the primary and election," he continues, "as there are powerful but invisible influences in control of official affairs which will after all be unaffected by anything they may do or say."
The facts show that there is unquestionably a dangerously large number of people who do feel this way about their civic duties, and when we consider the number entitled to vote who do not vote at the primary or election, the problem of the indifferent citizen is by no means an unimportant one. In the last national election there were more than 54,000,000 people entitled to vote, while only a few more than 26,000,000 or less than one-half those of voting age, cast a ballot."

Discouraged by the belief that "special interests" control the government in spite of the fact that they can do, some citizens, Hadley declares, refrain from voting.
"That this influence is less today than it ever was before," the former Governor declares, "is a fact that everyone familiar with public service will have to concede."
"Another cause of the failure of the ordinary citizen to vote at the primary and on election day," Hadley says, "has been his failure to realize that our form of government is a system of government by political parties. The only way we can have responsible government in this country is through political parties."

Twenty years of public service in municipal, county and state office, however, he adds, has led him to believe that such conditions are not general.

Service to Public.
It is his opinion that the public generally secures better and more honest service for less money than banking, commercial or industrial enterprises secure from their officers or employees."

In defense of State Legislatures, which the writer says work under a handicap of "haste and unscientific methods," Hadley adds that "we get surprisingly good results in actual legislation."

Hadley declares that appreciation of the responsibility of voting in the primary elections increases the probability of truly representative government.

A factor which contributes to popular indifference to the right of franchise, Hadley asserts, is the erroneous belief that public officials are of a "low order of ability and integrity."

"That we have had and have now incompetency and dishonesty in the public service," Hadley continues, "is, of course, true."

By stories that ducks were eating all the fish in their lake, residents wrote to the Department of Agriculture at Washington for information on how many fish a duck eats, a question that had been agitating fishermen and citizens for several weeks. When word came that less than 1 per cent of a duck's menu is fish, the excitement subsided, and residents living near the lake went about their daily affairs, satisfied that the lake and the fish therein were safe, at least from the ducks.

Facial Blemishes

Sallow, muddy, roughened or blotched complexions are usually due to constipation. When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication. Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

CONVENT, 1933.

LONDON, April 19.—An attempt to introduce "scabs" in a public school in Convent, where the teachers were striking against a 5 per cent wage reduction, was met yesterday by a riot among the pupils.

The boys refused to obey the substitute teachers, stood on desks and shouted "Black Legs!" and, when one boy was threatened with a cane, the whole class rushed at the teacher. He fled and the students proceeded to wreck the room.

The boys then went out into the yard to celebrate their victory. Police restored order. The strikebreakers were replaced with a few union teachers who, being near retirement, were not called out. The strike, first of its kind in years, goes on.

TOWER REPLACES DOME
ON NEBRASKA CAPITOLNew $5,000,000 Building Said to Be Influencing Architectural Designing.By the Associated Press OMAHA, Neb., April 13.—The astonishing influence that the new capitol of Nebraska, now under construction, seems to be having on present day architectural design, leads to the suggestion that Nebraska may be destined to be the cradle of a worth while American architecture.
According to Thomas R. Kimball, of this city, past president of the American Institute of Architects."Nebraska has blazed the pathway that is leading the world to esthetic architectural freedom in this new state capitol," states Mr. Kimball.
"The influence of this new building is being felt, as is shown in the recent Chicago Tribune competition, where among 200 or more submissions, most of the noticeable efforts were clearly traceable to this capitol.""Extreme simplicity has taken the place of elaboration, resulting in great saving in cost without loss of dignity. There are several points of arrangement that are peculiar to this building, one of which is that the usual useless dome is replaced by an equally monumental and wholly useful tower, wherein space for storage of State records is provided, adequate for a century."Precedent Defied.
"The architect has drawn from nearly every known style, type and period of architecture, and in their combination at once defied precedent and achieved a striking success."Kimball stated that it might well lead to a new and lasting type of architecture.
"This new Capitol not only shatters accepted tradition in its plan but presents a most enlightening example of how, without stupidly adapting or covering, we may avail ourselves of our full heritage of design," he added. "This new Capitol has at least challenged the assumption that this age of material things with its new client, 'the people,' may be going to have a worthy and lasting architecture of its own, accomplished both because of and in spite of the commercialism that so dominates the 'here and now.'"About 440 Feet Square.
The new Capitol will be approximately 440 feet square, covering almost four acres, and will cost the State about $5,000,000. The basement will be below the grade, a first floor forming a terrace entirely around the building, and a main floor forming the parapet to a height of 15 feet from the ground level. The tower rises from the center to a height of 400 feet and is surmounted by a colossal figure called "The Sower." It will be 80 feet square at the base and taper only slightly as it rises. It is a square severe shaft, pierced on each of its four sides by long, continuous windows, terminating in a graceful dome. The lower portion of the tower will contain the main rotunda. Above will be a dozen floors of offices housing many of the State departments.The main entrance is from the north, broad mass of a broad flight of steps. Immediately inside is the hall of state, a vaulted apartment about 50 feet high. At the left are the Governor's chambers, while at the right and left of the rotunda are the Senate and House chambers. The Supreme Courtrooms and library are in the rear.Four courts opening to the sky will admit light and air to the interior. No artificial lighting is required in any department by day.
The material is of stone of a light buff tone and the tower is of steel.
It is estimated that the tower will be seen from 20 to 40 miles in every

SLOT MACHINE CASE IS AGAIN CONTINUED

Judge Hartmann Disqualifies Self Because of Membership in Civic Organization.

More time was gained in the suit of slot machine owners against the police to enjoin them from interfering with mint-vending machines. When a fourth postponement of the hearing was obtained yesterday by the plaintiff, Benjamin O. Cook. The continuance this time was granted when Circuit Judge Hartmann disqualifies himself, on the ground that he is a member of the Public School Patrons' Alliance, which is interested in suppressing the machines. Objection to Judge Hartmann was raised by counsel for Cook, and the case was continued to May 4. It was transferred to Judge Hall's court, but owing to a congested docket, he was unable to hear it before the date set.

A temporary restraining order against the police, which was obtained March 1, when the suit was filed, remains in force. The case originally was taken up before Judge Landwehr, who granted a continuance. Then a change of venue was obtained, and another continuance granted by Judge Hartmann. Counsel for the plaintiff yesterday asked for another continuance, on the ground that he was not prepared for the hearing, and when this was denied by Judge Hartmann, the motion to disqualify was made. Detectives of the gambling squad yesterday arrested Louis Fisher, 43, saloon keeper at 4449 North Broadway, after one of the detectives had played a cash-paying slot machine in the place. Two mint-vending machines and the cash machine were confiscated. A warrant charging the setting up and maintaining of a gambling device was issued against Fisher today.

STATE REFUSES TO RETURN BONDS TO HOUSING TRUST

United Home Builders of America Had Asked for $100,000 in Securities.

Application by attorneys for the United Home Builders of America, a housing trust, formerly of St. Louis and now of Portland, Ind., for return of $100,000 in bonds deposited with the State of Missouri when the company moved to St. Louis from Dallas a year ago, has been refused by Commissioner of Finance Millican. It was learned today.

The company is in the hands of a receiver in Texas and involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed against the company in the Federal Court at Dallas on Feb. 23, last, and in the Federal Court here on March 5, last. The request was made to Millican in St. Louis by Thomas I. Anderson and other attorneys. It was contended the company had Missouri contracts totaling only $47,000. A second application for return of $52,000 of the bonds, leaving only an amount equivalent to the Missouri contracts claimed, also was refused by Millican.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL IN RADIO INJUNCTION CASE

Plaintiff Contends Order Fails to Specify Exact Limitations on Operation of Loud Speaker.

Motion for a new trial was filed today in Circuit Judge Wenzel's court by counsel for Otto J. Wenzel, 2072 Olive street, who was permanently enjoined last Monday from operating his radio loud speaker in vicinity of Grand boulevard and Olive street on complaint of the City College of Law and Finance, Mid-City Building, southeast corner of that intersection.

It is Wenzel's contention that the court's order, which read, "In such a way as to interfere with the business of the plaintiff," did not specify the exact limitations on operation of the loud speaker. The further reason is advanced that Judge Landwehr admitted some testimony held inadmissible by the plaintiff and ruled out valuable testimony considered admissible. Counsel for Wenzel expressed intention of an appeal if a new trial is not granted.

Orchestra Strikes During Play. By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 19.—The entire orchestra in the Astor Theater walked out on strike last night during the performance of "Lady Bur." The walkout followed the resignation of a member of the orchestra from the American Federation of Musicians. The performance was continued when Warren Jaussen, composer of the play, hurried to the piano and supplied the only music. The strike again reopened the war between the American Fed-crease of nearly 5000 over the fig-and 5750 Germans. The American

GERMAN TRADE UNIONS APPEAL TO AMERICANS
Communication, Presenting View of Ruhr Occupation, Presented Through Senator Borah.
general German Federation of Trade Unions, in a communication addressed to the American people and sent to Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, speaking for 12,000,000 German workers, today charged France with nursing a dream of annexation, with fostering bolshevism and, by its reparations demands, with "cheating America of the fruits of her victory."
"It is France that, by its reparations policy, heads straight to war," the federation says.
The German workers acknowledge the "duty of Germany" to restore devastated areas, uphold the principle of reparations and announce their willingness to pay within their power, but charge France with planning the Ruhr invasion for political and not economic reasons.
Position of Working Class.
"The German working class, by its position on the question of democracy, is the safest guarantee against a possible war," the federation adds. "In case the bolsheviks succeed in overthrowing the German democracy, those reactionaries who dream of such a war, would again seize political power. Whoever destroys the democracy, thereby also destroys the bulwark of peace."
In this respect, the French policy constitutes a danger inasmuch as it constantly strengthens bolshevik tendencies and the idea of revenge.
The French invasion of the Ruhr is denounced as a violation of the spirit of the Treaty of Versailles, "which was drafted with the cooperation of America."
Advance Into the Ruhr.
"The advance of France into the Ruhr Valley is an undeniably annexationist policy, and in violation of the rights of the German nation, is cheating America of the fruits of her victory and is destroying the aims for which she entered the war."
It adds:
"The attitude of the German workers on reparations is described: 'The German democracy from the first and without reservation acknowledged the duty of Germany to restore what had been destroyed by the war. They rallied politically behind every German Government which labored for an understanding with France and with the other countries of the entente.'
"The German workers have repeatedly advanced practical suggestions for the reconstruction of the devastated areas in Northern France.
The unions of the building trades for this purpose got in touch with the corresponding French trade unions and with the associations of war victims immediately after the conclusion of peace, and they agreed upon detailed plans and projects for the reconstruction.
"The German Government in each case agreed to these plans without reservation; on the other hand, the French Government has declined all of them or else has found means of making their execution fail."
"It certainly can be contended without exaggeration that a large part of the ruins of France could long ago have been reconstructed had the French Government shown a different spirit."
Nine Classes. Furnished.
Outlining the reparations already paid, the federation declares 45,000 million gold marks (about $10,000,- 000,000) were paid to France up to Sept. 30, 1922. It adds that $700,- 000,000 had also been paid to support the allied army of occupation up to Dec. 1, 1922.
Citing examples of the materials furnished the French army of occupation at the expense of the German people, the federation enumerates: "800 ladies' writing desks, 500 ladies' dresses, 16,000 iron, 18,000 carpets, 4500 tea services, 8700 coffee services, 25,000 porcelain plates, 12,000 glasses for white wine, 13,000 glasses

SWEDEN TO SPEND $70,000 IN PURCHASE OF PICTURES Committee Headed by Brother of King to Have Charge of Expenditure.
STOCKHOLM, April 19.—Artists in Sweden who happen to be in straitened circumstances have been cheered by the news that the Government stands ready to spend 270,- 000 kronor (about $12,000), in the purchase of their pictures.
The Government raises the money through a lottery. It acquires valuable paintings and sculptures in return for the money granted to the artists. This art is then to be placed in schools, sanatoriums and other Government institutions, where it will prove a pleasure to the public and at the same time help the artist by giving him publicity for his work.
The investment of funds and the purchase of art works is to be in the hands of a committee under the chairmanship of the landscape painter, Prince Eugene, a brother of the King of Sweden.
Olof Olsson, Minister of the ecclesiastical Department, under whom the appropriation has been obtained, says the only the highest class of paintings and statues will be purchased by the Government.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR CHILDREN

One of the First Acts of Rutherford B. Hayes, as President, Was to Recall the Troops Still Stationed in the South.

Inventions First Used in Hayes Administration.
By HENDRIK VAN LOON,
Author of "The Story of Mankind."
(Copyright, 1923, by the Christy Walsh Syndicate.)

FROM 1877 to 1881, Rutherford B. Hayes of Ohio was President of the United States. One of his first acts was to recall the troops still stationed in the South, thus leaving the Southerners free to work out their own salvation as best they might. During the war, the only money in circulation had been paper. You may have noticed what an uneasy way gold has of disappearing during any national upheaval. In 1879, the United States Treasury began paying out gold again, which meant that you could take a $10 bill to the bank and get a $10 gold piece for it. As soon as the general public was convinced that there was gold enough in the Treasury to redeem all the paper bills, they stopped drawing it out, and even exchanged the gold they happened to have for paper. As paper is so much easier to carry about, it was during Hayes' administration that the telephone came into use, having been patented in 1876 by Mr. Alexander Graham Bell. Mr. Bell was a Scotchman, born in Edinburgh in 1847. He was for a time professor in vocal physiology in the University of Boston. His father before him had been an instructor in elocution, and Mr. Bell tells us how, as a child, he and his brother tried to construct a false head, with carefully fashioned throat and palate, which would utter sounds nearly like human words. All this early training was a great help to him, when he came to perfect his wonderful device for transmitting speech. Another great invention, perfected during Hayes' administration, was the electric light. Thomas Alva Edison, who is the same age as Mr. Bell, but who was born in Ohio, gave to the world in December, 1879, the result of many years of labor, the electric light bulb.

The next President was James A. Garfield, also of Ohio. He took the oath of office in March, 1881. Upon the second day of July of the same year, he went to the Baltimore & Potomac Railway station in Washington, intending to join several members of the Cabinet there for a short trip to New York and New England. As he was passing through the ladies' waiting room, a man named Charles Guiteau shot him in the back. Guiteau had entertained the high ambition of being appointed Minister to Austria, but his request had been refused. He had chosen this method of revenge. The wounded President was taken to the White House, and the assassin to prison. For a time it was thought that the wound might prove fatal, but after many weeks of pain, Garfield died upon the 19th day of September. He was buried in Cleveland, O. Upon the day of the funeral, mourning was offered for the first time in European court circles in memory of the President of a republic.

The Vice President, Chester A. Arthur, now became President. As the assassin was a disappointed office-seeker, the administration began to investigate the old spoils system, whereby successful candidates for office rewarded their helpful friends by giving them Government positions. As a result of these investigations, a Civil Service Commission was appointed (1883) and since that day, if you want to be Postmaster of your home town, you must take a civil service examination, and then await your turn. That is, if there is no political corruption in your home town.

TELL JURY OF "BLIND POOL"

Witnesses Relate Their Experiences With Winthrop Smith & Co.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 19.—Witnesses from Washington and Baltimore described to a Federal court jury yesterday how they were enticed to invest their money in a "blind pool" operated by the bankrupt investment brokerage firm of Winthrop Smith & Co., through a prospectus entitled "Theory and Practice of Making Money."

Winthrop Smith, Dr. Leonard Keen Hirschbaum and C. J. Kelly, all connected with the firm, are on trial for fraudulent use of the mails. John J. Finen and Charles M. Knight have pleaded guilty. The Government charges that the scheme took $1,000,000 from unsuspecting persons in many cities.

Financial Fable

Once upon a time there was a man who went out to hunt, when suddenly a mighty storm descended, and he crawled into a hollow log for shelter. Rain fell, time passed, the sun shone again, but alas for Our Hero—the log had swollen so that he couldn't get out. He called for help, but it came not. A day passed. On the verge of starvation, he glanced up and saw—a squirrel. This little animal was busy preparing for a hard winter, gathering nuts. The sight brought tears to Our Hero's eyes, for he remembered that he had not saved, and had made no preparation for his family. He hadn't even made a will.

The thought made him feel so small that he crawled out of the log without trouble, and went home to his family.

The treasures of Tutankhamen's tomb amount to little compared to what might have been. If he had deposited one dollar's worth of that gold in some strong Nile bank 3,000 years ago, at 3% interest, compounded twice a year—the dollar would be worth more than a ball of solid gold the size of the earth. But King Tut lived before perpetual motion in the form of compound interest had been invented.

FOOT LEAVES FLOUR IMPRINT ON FLOOR OF COURTROOM

Attorney for Defendant in Damage Suit Cites This as Evidence and Wins Case.

When counsel for the defendant in a $10,000 damage suit in Circuit Judge Ritter's court yesterday asserted Frank Zitzmann, 42 years old, 2611 Sheridan avenue, had flat feet and that the accident on which he was claiming damages against the Glueck Box Co. had nothing to do with his foot's malformation, counsel for the plaintiff produced a sack of flour and a piece of black paper and took an impression of Zitzmann's pedal extremity.

The impression looked normal. It was introduced as evidence. Then Zitzmann walked back to his seat. But he left a trail of flour footprints across the courtroom floor. J. M. Lashly, counsel for the defendant, spied the trail and requested that the jury be allowed to examine what he termed a flat-foot imprint.

The jury filed out of its box and followed the flour marks to where Zitzmann was seated, replacing his shoe on the member in question. A verdict in favor of the defendant was returned. Zitzmann had alleged he suffered a broken left ankle while unloading some faulty boxes for the company July 13, 1931, and that the usefulness of his foot had been impaired.

MAN BURNED CLEANING CAR

Three Autos Also Damaged When Spark From Engine Causes Fire.

Theodore Raus, 2414 Washington boulevard, was burned on the hands and arms and three automobiles and four buildings were damaged by a fire starting from a spark while Raus was cleaning the engine of his machine in the garage at the rear of his home with gasoline at 9:30 p.m. yesterday. Raus attempted to smother the blaze with a blanket and was burned. He was taken to the city hospital.

The Raus machine was damaged $500. Two automobiles belonging to Anton Brunner, in garages at 2412 and 2415 Washington boulevard, were damaged $400 each. The three garages were damaged $200 and the building of the National Used Car Co., 2401 Locust street, damaged $100.

FRANCE USING WHALE TO CATCH A SPRAT, BRITISH LABOR VIEW

Report Suggests Britain Appeal to Nations in Ruhr Row to Try for Peace.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, April 12.—"France is spending millions on the occupation and getting next to nothing out of it; she is using a whale to catch a sprat." This conclusion is contained in the report of the Labor party's delegation which went to the Ruhr about the middle of March to investigate the situation there and in other parts of Germany.

The delegation was composed of Thomas Shaw, Charles R. Burton and William Adamson, all members of the House of Commons.

The report, just issued, proceeds: "In our judgment the situation cannot adequately be dealt with by any machinery under the treaty of Versailles, but requires a new instrument, international in character, in the framing of which the German people should participate."

The report suggests that an appeal should be made to the French and German Governments to submit their proposals with regard to reparations and security to an international tribunal that the initiative should be taken by the British Government.

JUDGE TELLS JURY PRISON RECORD OF MAN ACQUITTED

Verdict in Case of Defendant Identified as Kroger Robber Followed by Speech From Bench.

Francis Moran was thanking the jurors who had found him not guilty of robbery yesterday afternoon when Circuit Judge Falkenhainer waved him aside and directed the jurors to resume their seats.

"You men will have to stand the responsibility for this verdict," the court said. "As a matter of information to you, I will say that this man was shot once during an affair similar to this, and he has served a term in the State Reformatory. Inasmuch as he did not take the witness stand, the State could not bring this out. I merely mention this to show you how good your judgment has been."

Charles R. McAdams of 4209A Junata street, a candy salesman, who was one of the jury, volunteered the information that on three ballots during three and one-half hours of deliberation the vote was 10 to 2 for conviction.

Moran, who is 21 years old and lives at 2226 North Market street, was identified in court by Christopher McCormack, manager of the Kroger store at 4256 College avenue, as one of three men who held him up in the morning of April 11, 1932, and took $67 from the cash register. William M. Tierney, who was indicted with Moran in connection with the robbery, pleaded guilty last June and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Story of Robbery.
McCormack testified Tierney made him lie upon the floor behind the counter, covering him with a revolver, while Moran took the money. He did not get a good view of the third man, he said.

Relatives of Moran testified he was at home nursing his father at the time.

Police records show that Moran was arrested six times and served a term in the reformatory at Booneville. As Judge Falkenhainer pointed out, the State was barred from disclosing Moran's previous record at the trial because he did not take the stand. When a defendant does not take the stand or introduce character witnesses, his character does not become an issue in the case and, therefore, cannot be touched upon by the State.

A previous conviction can be shown by the State, if the defendant does not take the witness stand, only when the former conviction is alleged in the indictment at bar, under the habitual criminal act, but then the previous conviction must have been for a felony for which the defendant has served a penitentiary sentence. A reformatory sentence cannot be cited under the habitual criminal act.

Basis of Acquittal.
The first ballot by the jury resulted in a vote of 7 to 5 for conviction. The next three ballots stood 10 to 2 for conviction, the two jurors holding out for acquittal, maintaining that they were actuated by Moran's youth and the fact that this apparently was the first time he had been in trouble. They pointed out that as he was identified by only one witness there was an element of doubt, and they were going to give him the benefit of that doubt, no matter how long the jury remained in session.

Foreman McAdams told reporters that after the two jurors had expressed their determination of holding out for acquittal a ballot was taken and the vote stood 8 to 4 for acquittal. A few minutes later, he said, another ballot was taken and the result was a unanimous vote for acquittal.

After Judge Falkenhainer had informed the jury, at the conclusion of the case, of Moran's previous record, Foreman McAdams turned to another juror with a look of indignation, but made no comment. He left the impression, however, that the juror at whom he had scowled was one of the two who had held out for acquittal.

Members of the jury, in addition to Foreman McAdams, were George C. Krebs Jr., clerk, 900 St. Louis avenue; Edward F. Kunz, switchman, 2215 South Jefferson avenue; John T. McCormack, clerk, 5119 Wicklow place; Walter C. Melbaum, clerk, 1835 Russell avenue; Howard E. Miller, battery service employee, 4010A Botanical avenue; Edward H. Moeller, factory foreman, 4044 Sullivan avenue; Joseph F. Morrison, stationery engineer, 2916A South Thirtieth street; Clarence R. Niccum, clerk, 1107A Hebert street; Arnold B. Rudd, clerk, 4563A Lucky street; Lawrence H. Schmitter, shoe salesman, 2142 Arsenal street; and Bernard A. Steck Jr., estimator, 4510 Alaska avenue.

FREE UNTIL WIFE LEAVES JAIL

Man Needed at Home Gets Stay of Liquor Sentence.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 19.—The fact that his wife and son-in-law already are serving jail terms for violations of the prohibition law was responsible for leniency being shown Tom Gresham of Hot Springs, by Judge Jacob Trierer of the United States District Court recently.

Gresham pleaded guilty of manufacturing, possessing and selling whisky, and was given a four-months' jail sentence. He then told the court that his wife and son-in-law were already in jail and that he was needed at home. Judge Trierer stayed execution on the sentence until Aug. 1, when Mrs. Gresham will be released from jail.

"Been My Druggist Now for Fifteen Years"

The other day a prescription was sent in to us—to be filled and delivered. The customer lived in a remote corner of town and sent the prescription by a friend. But she knew that we would fill and deliver it—promptly. Because we had "been my druggist for fifteen years," she knew she could depend on us.

We like that term, "my druggist." We'll serve you just as well if you make us "your druggist."

FREEDOM OF PRESS UPHELD BY COURT

Supreme Tribunal of Illinois Dismisses Damage Suit for $10,000,000 Against Chicago Tribune.

By the Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 19.—Only in the days of the divine right of kings, the Supreme Court of Illinois stated yesterday, in dismissing the $10,000,000 libel suit filed by the city of Chicago during the administration of former Mayor Thompson, against the Chicago Tribune, could it find a reasonable basis for prosecution.

The Supreme Court's decision upheld freedom of speech and freedom of press. As far as could be ascertained from reported cases, it was believed to be the first time that any court in the United States had ruled whether a municipality might be libeled.

Recovery of damages was sought by the city from the Tribune for alleged libelous statements published during the gubernatorial campaign of 1920, when the Tribune supported John Oglesby and the city administration favored Len Small for the Republican nomination. Credit of the city, the petition charged, was injured by publication of "defamatory matter."

The Court did not pass on the truth or falsity of the statements printed in the Tribune, but dealt with the right of freedom of speech and of press. As long as critics of government refrain from advocating violence or the government's overthrow, the Court said, "every citizen has a right to criticize an inefficient or corrupt government without fear of civil as well as criminal prosecution."

No dissenting opinion was filed, and the Court's ruling upheld the lower court, that there "was no cause for action" by the city of Chicago.

SUGGESTION ON CITY SAVING

Bakewell Incorrectly Quoted on Cost of Cleaning Buildings. Recommendations on the operation of various municipal power plants have been presented to city officials by the Bureau of Municipal Research, which, if adopted, would effect a saving of approximately $60,000 a year, Paul Bakewell Jr., chairman of the governing committee of the bureau, stated Sunday in an address at Held's Hall, Broadway and Chippewa street.

He was incorrectly quoted in the Post-Dispatch as stating the cost of cleaning the city buildings is more than $20,000 a month and that the cost could be reduced $60,000 a year.

NOVEL ROUND-TABLE TALKS PLANNED FOR LIBRARY MEETING

Business and Technical Men Will Tell What Kind of Books They Seek.

An innovation in library conferences will be introduced at the annual convention of the American Library Association at Hot Springs, Ark., next week, by Dr. Arthur E. Bostwick, librarian of the St. Louis Public Library.

Dr. Bostwick will conduct a round table at the Wednesday afternoon session of the conference to which persons representing various phases of business and technical life will be invited to give their views as to what type of books they expect to find in libraries to assist them in their work.

Dr. Bostwick contends that in library work the consumer is the final judge and his opinion should be consulted.

About 300 librarians and assistants are expected to visit in St. Louis Sunday on their way to the convention.

4 SUSPECTS HELD IN FUTILE ATTEMPT TO ROB PAYROLL

Head of Construction Company Slightly Wounded as Shot Is Fired Into His Office Window.

$1000 IN OPEN SAFE UNTOUCHED

Witnesses Say Two Men Remained in Touring Car, While Two Others Shot Into Building.

Four suspects are being held by the police in connection with the shooting of Theodore L. Fehlig, 50 years old, of 1433 South Grand boulevard, president of the Fehlig Construction Co., yesterday afternoon, when four men attempted to rob the company's office, 3500 Hickory street. The robbers fled in an automobile, after failing to find a $1000 payroll in an open safe.

Fehlig told a Post-Dispatch reporter he was preparing to make up the payroll at 2:30 o'clock, and, glancing out a window, saw two youths crossing Hickory street toward the office, which is at the southwest corner of Hickory street and Thirteenth avenue. He turned away and a moment later the window was broken in and a shot fired, the bullet grazing Fehlig's neck and inflicting a superficial flesh wound. He ran out the door and east on Hickory street, stating he did not know what happened thereafter. Fehlig said he heard several shots while he was running. He did not see the car used by the robbers.

Other witnesses said a Cadillac touring car was driven up on the Thirteenth avenue side of the office, two men remaining in the car while two others, armed with revolvers, were shooting into the building. They did not know whether the men entered the office. The car then was driven east on Hickory street at high speed. The police report stated five men were in the car and that they failed to find the payroll after searching the office.

Fehlig said the money was in a cigar box in the safe and the door of the safe was open.

Police reported an attempt was made by several men to rob the Fehlig office one night about two weeks ago, but they were frightened away after forcing an entrance.

The hits were not wasted efforts Tuesday he drove in the run that tied the score and sent the game into extra innings. Yesterday he advanced another step and pounded out the single that broke a 2-2 tie and won the game. Meanwhile, for the purposes of playing his position and hitting in runs, Freigan is more than the long gambler Rickey was willing to take.

Of course there are weak features of Freigan's play that must be overcome. For instance, Howard plays too close to second base and lazy hands will slip past him to left field for singles. However, a few games will teach him to overcome that fault. Regardless of whether he retains the place, Rickey is at least assured of a capable substitute. And the odd part of it all is that George Toporcer, a hitter that bunched an average of .323 in 116 games last year, is on the bench.

BALDWIN REFUSES TO REDUCE BRITISH DUTY ON SUGAR

Tells Commons That Any Cut Made "Would Go Straight to New York."

LONDON, April 19.—The House of Commons last night, by a vote of 244 to 166, refused to consider a bill introduced by Capt. John H. Thomas, Conservative, proposing to follow the custom of France, Spain and other countries and permit Ministers whether belonging to the House of Lords or Commons, to speak in either House.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Baldwin, replying to criticisms of his budget, gave details of the manner in which the Dominions are paying their debts to England. The Australian and New Zealand debts are funded and interest amounting to about $6,000,000 yearly is being received regularly. A substantial portion of the South African debt had been paid off and the remainder funded. The Canadian debt had about been settled.

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

The greatest and practically all forms of dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn, gas on stomach, sour acid stomach, and all the other troubles that result from indigestion, are caused by the action of the stomach and intestines. # M'LORD O' THE WHITE ROAD

By CEDRIC FRASER

CHAPTER IV. (Continued.)

There were louder shouts through the darkness, shouts of men approaching, hearing which the girl shuddered. "Listen," she gasped, "an' you would save me from all, help me to escape yonder rabble. I have fled me from them posthaste, but they have followed me from Bensels Green and, riding hard, o'ertook my chaise and halted it by shooting one of the leaders. In the confusion and darkness I escaped, but they are searching for me now. Will aid me?"

He bowed low with courtly grace, and a look of quick relief lit up her face.

"Quick," she cried, "we must fly. They are close upon us."

He seized her hand, and together they ran rapidly along the road.

But their pursuers had heard their footsteps now, and with hoarse cries dashed after them.

In vain Shale looked as he ran for a break in the thick hedge. They reached the end of the wooded part of the road, and passed from the protecting shadows of the trees into the open, while the morning lights came and went in the skies, and the rain dripped into nothingness at last.

Mingled with the patter, patter of human feet was now the clatter of horses' hoofs. Their pursuers were mounted.

It was plain that further flight was useless.

"We waste our wind," gasped Shale, "let us halt here where the hedge is thinnest, and I will keep the bounds at bay while you strive to beat your way through the bush into the fields beyond."

They stopped by the roadside and bent instant their pursuers were upon them.

Shale thrust the girl behind him and drew his rapier.

There were seven mounted men. They leapt from their horses at the command of their leader and, advancing, peered through the gloom.

"Hark! the maid, lady, but who's that with her? 'Tis none of our number by her garb. Stand by, stranger, or you'll come by harm."

"'Tis a remark I might well retort, gentle and honored sir," answered Shale grimly, tucking up the sleeve of his sword arm as he spoke.

The man pushed forward, but stopped as the silver rapier steel flashed out.

"Oddsbooth! Wouldst defy me, churl," he shouted wrathfully. "Well, a bullet will bring thee to thy senses and take thy senses from thee at one fell blow and, mark me, I have that bullet handy."

He thrust up a long pistol, and his companions laughed loudly at his coarse wit. But now above their laughter rose a girlish voice.

"Dare to shoot, Ned Marley, and I'll have you whipped tomorrow like a dog."

The man wavered and lowered his pistol.

"We have our orders, m'lady," he answered gruffly, "an' they are to bring you back safe and sound. We had no word about this sorry knave."

She was quick to take advantage of his hesitation.

"Then if you would not harm me, shoot not, for should your bullets miss this man 'twere well nigh certain they would find their mark in me. And then, Marley, you would all most surely be whipped and end your miserable lives dangling from a rope, fit objects for the hounds to snap at."

Marley muttered grim oaths, but nevertheless withdrew to the other side of the road, and held a muttered consultation with his men.

"Now's your chance," whispered Shale to the girl, "force your way through the hedge and run along behind it till you come to an inn which is near by, and there you will get shelter."

"Will you remain here to be shot?" He smiled grimly down at her.

"A few will fall 'ere then," he vowed.

She shook her head.

"Nay, friend, I think yours is too good a life to sacrifice. You have proved yourself a friend of mine, and never shall it be said that I deserted my friends. While I am with you, they will not dare to shoot."

The men gathered around them in a semicircle, the leader, Marley, slightly in advance, though well back from the glittering rapier.

"'Twill fare ill with you, fellow, if you do not be off," he called, "unless you begone within a minute we'll set about you, and we'll wipe you out, won't we lady?"

"Aye," growled the others ominously, "that we will."

"Proceed then," replied Shale calmly. "I am waiting the first of you with eagerness. Methinks it will be you, friend Marley. Hast said thy prayers? If not, make haste, and look you, 'twould be a charity to some poor churl who perchance might find thee skinned in the road, were you first to discard your handsome brocaded coat, which, being yellow, an' I see aught, will be most sadly soiled when thy blood is let out upon it."

Shale heard a little thrill of laughter beside him, and Marley muttered curses under his breath. But without he stepped back a pace.

"You are venturesome, Marley," went on Shale tauntingly, "but yet you have a worthy respect for your yellow coat, or is it for my blade—ah, no, I think not, 'tis plain 'tis your own skin you treasure, even though it be a very dirty skin. Ned, nigh as dirty as your black heart, which would have you lay your plebeian hands upon a lady."

The taunted man danced about in rage.

"At him, fellows," he shouted, "wouldst let one worthless rogue defy the lot o' ye. At him—I say—at him and in a moment you'll o'erpower him."

The others hesitated. 'Twas plain that the first to make the assault would feel the point of that glittering blade within his flesh and none was eager for the honor.

"You go first then, Ned," said one of the rascals, "and we'll follow you."

"O'wards," cried Ned, "six of you, and not one with the courage of a mouse."

"Nay, not six," put in Shale, wagging his sword tantalizingly. "There's seven, Ned. You surely forgot yourself, the least venturesome of all. Come be the first, man. I itch to test the temper of my steel upon your rancid flesh."

Marley squirmed like a snake beneath the lash of that taunting tongue, and for a moment it seemed that he would take his little courage in his hands and lead the attack, but even taunts were not enough to bring this about. Instead he drew his pistol and turning presented them at the bodies of his men.

"Get forward, dogs, or I'll drop you where you stand."

There was no gainsaying that the man meant every word he said.

"'Tis faith, we have an ally, m'lady," quoth John. "Brave, Ned. But you make an error, man. Shoot them first and order them afterwards, 'twere more in our favor then."

The silvery laughter of m'lady broke the air, and awoke the dormant courage of the men.

"Hark at her scoffing ye," shouted Marley, quick to take advantage—

"Come on, lads, let's rush him all together, and he can do little harm."

"Harm!" cried Shale, "in truth he'd do none at all. 'Twould be a charity to rid the earth of the lot of you."

This was too much even for such a chicken-hearted crew, and with hoarse shouts and much brandishing of cudgels they rushed in a mass at the girl's protector.

The latter raised his blade to strike. His face was grim. Only a second more, and—

"Don't kill them, please," sounded softly in his ear.

He looked at her and faltered.

"'Twas fatal, for next instant they were under his guard and upon him."

With a soft curse he dropped his sword and struck out fiercely with his naked fists.

The first terrible blow caught Ned Marley full on the jaw, lifting him well off his feet, drove him stunned back through the ranks of his companions.

The second mighty swipe crashed brutally on the ear of a great clumsy postillion, who had risen on tip-toe to strike with his club. It knocked him sideways against the others, causing the whole crowd to stagger.

One man clutched at Shale's throat. The latter's mighty hand seized the rogue by the hair of the head and with a splitting shriek he was hurled him headlong into the mud.

But now the others were close upon the farmer, around him, behind him. He felt one crushing rascal burst himself upon his back, but even then he

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS
The Close-Up

I READ of authors, men of note; with bated breath I sit and wonder at the stuff they wrote and how they thought of it. I read of painters famed abroad, of singers of renown, of statesmen whom the nations laud, of dreams in cap and gown. And ever as I read I think: "Alack, could I but know just one such deep learned gink, how clever I would grow!" I'm sure that soon I'd know it all, as at his feet I sat and garnered truths that he let fall concerning this and that. I'd swiftly find the way to fight the cares that round me lurk; I'd set the Balkan trouble right, and settle Mr. Turk. Oh, it must be a priceless boon to hear sage theories of how we came from the baboon and use to live in trees. And yet a lot of fellows say these chaps of wide renown, when they are lived with day by day, are much like Smith and Brown. They want the toast and eggs just so, they kick about their tea; the sugar known the more they grow to be like you and me. You'd say the Boss of Yucatan must be a brainy boy, and still a close-up of the man looks much like Bill McCoy. They say he has the self-same ways, he's weak and vain and proud, and never gets enough of praise from all the fawning crowd. But he is fond of childish fun; loves babies' mirth and joy; and so, when all is said and done, he's much like Bill McCoy. It's fine to know we're all akin; small folks take heart and grow to fit the laurels great folks win, as close-ups serve to show.

Shale heard a little thrill of laughter beside him, and Marley muttered curses under his breath. But without he stepped back a pace.

"You are venturesome, Marley," went on Shale tauntingly, "but yet you have a worthy respect for your yellow coat, or is it for my blade—ah, no, I think not, 'tis plain 'tis your own skin you treasure, even though it be a very dirty skin. But now the others were close upon the farmer, around him, behind him. He felt one crushing rascal burst himself upon his back, but even then he wrestled desperately with two others in front of him.

Backwards and forwards the trio swayed, and with each passing second Shale's long arms, which had wound themselves around the two men before him, were crushing the very life from their bodies.

Down, down he forced them, bending their backs inwards to him till they collapsed suddenly under him, and with a mighty crash he fell on top of them, while the third man still clung upon his back.

At that instant a quivering cry arose in a girlish voice. It sounded in a sad, sorrowful wail of despair.

Shale gave a mighty wrench and freed himself from the clutches of the men beneath him. Then his strong, right arm struck twice in quick succession heavy brutal blows, and their heads fell back limply.

With the last wretched creature still clinging upon his back like a veritable old man of the sea, Shale staggered drunkenly to his feet. Suddenly, with herculean effort, he hurled himself backward onto the muddy ground.

There was a sickening thud, a gasping cry, a soft moaning sound, and the grip of the last man relaxed.

Shale tore himself free and slowly scrambled up.

Four figures lay on the road around him, life silent, two moaning softly. No one else was to be seen.

With a fierce cry he set off down the road leading through the woods again, but even as he ran he knew he was too late.

While yet a hundred yards off, he heard the shouts of postillions, the clatter of hoofs, the grinding of wheels, and in a few seconds the steady rumbling of a swift-moving clack.

And Shale knew that it carried away from him a girl with soft eyes and curls of yellow gold.

But now the others were close upon the farmer, around him, behind him. He felt one crushing rascal burst himself upon his back, but even then he

By Ruth Snyder.

Is ideal love a thing of the past? Are the girls of today looking for husbands with money or social position rather than love? Is companionship now the basis for marriage? Has the luxury of high living throttled and smothered our better emotions? What do you think?

These questions arise on every side and every day. There seems to be a feeling of disquietude. Young people are trying to find out the solution of marital felicity. A French author of note has made the subject singularly pertinent by the publication of a book, "Love of Today."

"The great passion of today is for the luxury of high living."

"Is ideal love a thing of the past?"

"Bally rot!" replied Cosmo Hamilton, when asked his opinion. "Of course love exists today just as much as it has from the time of Adam and Eve down."

"Indeed it does live," agreed Rachel Crothers. "Love doesn't change. It's the customs, modes and codes that change."

So with the feeling that the American ideal of "ideal love" was out of harmony with the minor wail of the voice across the sea, I went to see Kathleen Norris, the versatile writer and charming hostess.

"Well, I don't know but that he is about right," was the surprising answer from this equally surprising woman, as we sat comfortably tete-a-tete in her reception parlor at the hotel. "I can't say whether it is true only of girls in the cities and towns or whether it is true throughout the country. But it does seem to me that love is given away now with a 'tag' on it. Girls aren't loving with this so-called 'grand passion.' They do not love the way I'll follow you into the desert sort of love. No! Love is only one of the issues in marriage today. Not that I think it an ideal condition. But it is true."

"Ideal love? Well, ideal love is an indiscriminate love," she replied. "A mother is going to love her child regardless of the fact that it is a homely little youngster. She is going to love him for those two big freckles of his. She is going to love him regardless of defects. And that is the way a girl should love the man she is going to marry, or the way the man should love the girl he is going to marry."

"But, no! Today marriage seems to be the one thing in the world that requires 100 per cent perfection," Kathleen Norris continued. "A girl wants her husband to be handsome, wealthy, considerate, generous, healthy, wise, etc. Why, it simply cannot be. No man living is 100 per cent perfect. Such a man can only be found on a gravestone. But the girl of today will marry a man with this perfection idea in mind, and if he doesn't live up to it she is disappointed in him. Why, she will cry, 'Mr. Thompson down the street has just bought his wife a new coat. I don't see why you can't make as much money as he does,' or something to that effect, overlooking the fact that her husband probably has more virtue which is equally appealing to Mrs. Thompson."

"This French writer declares that the 'great passion of today is for the luxury of high living, and our better emotions are throttled and smothered,'" I reminded Mrs. Norris.

"There is a young friend of mine," Mrs. Norris declared, apropos of the above statement, "who has just divorced her husband because she believes 'she is now experiencing the 'grand passion' of her life. But when I asked her if the object of her 'grand passion' were only a $40-a-week man, would she marry him, she immediately replied, 'Why, no! We couldn't live on that.'"

"It is the same thing with the working girl," Mrs. Norris continued. "She has become independent. She makes—say, $50 a week. Then a young man comes along. They fall in love. But they do not marry, because the girl is figuring on some-

What You Should Know About Treatment of Mumps

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

EVERYONE laughs when you say a friend has the mumps. I suppose it is because the mumps patient looks so funny. His face is all out of shape and his natural expression is lost in the swelling.

But mumps is not an ailment to be laughed at or despised. It is a very real disease.

The organs which supply the moisture for the mouth are called the salivary glands. In mumps these glands become inflamed and swollen. This makes the neck and the tissues under the edge of the lower jaw bulge out, causing the face to lose its symmetry.

The nature of the germ or virus carrying the infection is not understood as yet, but the disease is classified with the acute infectious or contagious diseases. It comes on two or three weeks after exposure.

When the disease gains a foothold in a school or institution, it may attack almost every person in attendance. Some years or some seasons there may be widespread epidemics of mumps. Children are the common victims, but it does attack adults, men particularly.

The first sign of mumps is fever. This rarely runs high unless the attack is particularly acute.

Pain below the ear or under the jaw on one side of the face is complained of, and a slight swelling is found in the painful region. The swelling increases until the features are distorted. Sometimes the other side of the face is attacked speedily, and then the victim is a sight.

One of the popular ways of deciding whether the trouble really is mumps, is to eat a pickle. Any acid causes acute pain.

The symptoms last for a week or 10 days. The fever and swelling disappear and the disease is gone.

There are certain uncomfortable complications. Other glands may be involved. In rare instances the brain may become affected. Kidney trouble, paralysis of the face and other parts, and inflammation of the joints are other exceptional complications.

In very rare cases the gland suppurates and must be drained. Fortunately, however, this is rarely necessary. Most of the cases are simple, speedily relieved, and leave no after-effect.

The treatment is simple. Rest in bed during the fever, simple fever remedies, measures needed. Cold compresses, according to the patient will provide relief.

Care should be given to discharges especially the ears. These should be kept away from the contamination and infection.

WOMEN VOTERS MERELY AVOIDING PALE WHEN THEY FAILED TO JOIN LEAGUE

Not a Republican Victory, for Mention of Conference to Eliminate War Was Also Avoided at Des Moines Meeting.

By Marguerite Martyn.

THE action of the League of Women voters in their international peace resolution appears to have left an impression that because the resolution did not specifically mention the League of Nations, Republicans triumphed over Democrats in the gathering of women which was supposed to represent all women voters.

Now I was there at the convention listening to the debate which absorbed the last two open sessions and nobody knows how many causes and conferences in between, and though every subject related and unrelated was brought in by turns to clarify the issue, I know there was one steady, consistent current of thought that persisted and at last won through. It was this: The great majority of us wants the League of Nations, but as a nonpartisan organization we cannot accept it with a partisan brand. Therefore let us agree upon something just as good under another name.

Leading Democratic women more than Republican women were determined to take the curse of partisanship from the League of Nations issue and this they sought to do even at the expense of having their conciliatory act interpreted as a Republican victory. Just to show how determined were the Democratic women to avoid rejecting the fateful phrase, it was

By Ruth Snyder.

Is ideal love a thing of the past? Are the girls of today looking for husbands with money or social position rather than love? Is companionship now the basis for marriage? Has the luxury of high living throttled and smothered our better emotions? What do you think?

These questions arise on every side and every day. There seems to be a feeling of disquietude. Young people are trying to find out the solution of marital felicity. A French author of note has made the subject singularly pertinent by the publication of a book, "Love of Today."

"Boredom and lack of sympathy have taken the place of the grand passion."

"Is ideal love a thing of the past?"

"Bally rot!" replied Cosmo Hamilton, when asked his opinion. "Of course love exists today just as much as it has from the time of Adam and Eve down."

"Indeed it does live," agreed Rachel Crothers. "Love doesn't change. It's the customs, modes and codes that change."

So with the feeling that the American ideal of "ideal love" was out of harmony with the minor wail of the voice across the sea, I went to see Kathleen Norris, the versatile writer and charming hostess.

"Well, I don't know but that he is about right," was the surprising answer from this equally surprising woman, as we sat comfortably tete-a-tete in her reception parlor at the hotel. "I can't say whether it is true only of girls in the cities and towns or whether it is true throughout the country. But it does seem to me that love is given away now with a 'tag' on it. Girls aren't loving with this so-called 'grand passion.' They do not love the way I'll follow you into the desert sort of love. No! Love is only one of the issues in marriage today. Not that I think it an ideal condition. But it is true."

"Just how would you define ideal love?" Mrs. Norris was asked.

"Ideal love? Well, ideal love is an indiscriminate love," she replied. "A mother is going to love her child regardless of the fact that it is a homely little youngster. She is going to love him for those two big freckles of his. She is going to love him regardless of defects. ### Great Majority Want League but as Nonpartisan Or- ganization They Refuse to Indorse It With Partisan Brand.

publican policy just as approving the existing League of Nations is a Democratic party policy. The cutting out of that phrase indicates quite definitely, I think, that there was general satisfaction among us with steps that already have been taken, that is, with the League of Nations as it now exists. The reason we did not ask for indorsement of the League of Nations is because it has become a partisan issue and we want the whole principle taken out of politics and the elimination of war made a nonpartisan, universal platform upon which we all may stand."

Nevertheless, in spite of all these protestations of nonpartisanship, there could be detected among Republican women in groups an air of self-satisfaction and despite the protestations among the Democratic women, of satisfaction with results attained, there began to be evidences of weakening around the region where party loyalty is located Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, who is perhaps a Democrat first and League-of-Women voter second, made the statement:

This organization has for one of its purposes the upliftment and improvement of political parties and insists that parties must offer principles before women will join them, yet when a party offers a principle identical with one they have been seeking, they will not endorse it because it has a party brand. We Democrats, too, want the curse of partisanship taken off the League of Nations, but it is rather discouraging to party organizers to offer the high principle the women desire and still be discriminated against them when it comes to endorsement."

Those funny baggy little nightclothes

So little and chubby they look in them—so uncertain on their pins! How they tumble around in their efforts to walk. They seem to wipe the dirt off every step before toddling on to the next.

When they fall down they make a thorough job of rubbing dirt into their clothes before getting up.

But mothers today can keep those active little bodies sweet and clean in spotless nightclothes—they can keep them shining and fragrant in rompers and school dresses.

A wonderful new kind of soap makes even a wash of grimy little garments easy.

With this new soap—Rinso—soaking takes the place of rubbing. Its soapy suds go through every fold and thread, gently loosening all the dirt. Only spots where dirt is actually ground in—knees, neck-bands, seats of rompers and the like—will need any rubbing and these but lightly with a little dry Rinso. The old hard, harmful rubbing is banished for good.

Make your next wash easy with Rinso. It takes the place of bar soap at every step of the family wash—for soaking, boiling, and in washing machines. Just as the textile manufacturers advise Lux for fine fabrics, so leading washing machine manufacturers tell women to use Rinso in their machines.

Get Rinso today—at any grocery or department store. It comes in two sizes, the regular size and the big new package. Made by the makers of Lux, the largest soap makers in the world. Lever Bros. Co., 164 Broadway, Cambridge, Mass.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The New Home in the Long Lane.

By Thornton W. Burgess

Safety first! Keep this in mind, if happiness you hope to find.

—Johnny Chuck.

JOHNNY CHUCK drew a long breath of satisfaction when Polly Chuck told him that they would make their new home right where they then were. You see, Johnny was tired of roaming about. He wanted to get settled. It is fine to go roaming about for a while, but there is nothing quite like a settled feeling.

Polly Chuck had stopped at the foot of a young tree growing close to the fence, about half-way up one side of the Long Lane that leads from Farmer Brown's barnyard to the Green Meadows. Johnny sat up and carefully looked over the ground. He didn't want to appear too well satisfied; he wanted to find fault. But after a good look he had to admit to himself that no fault was to be found. He had to admit to himself that Polly Chuck knew what was what in selecting a place for a home. Between the fence and the road down the middle of the Long Lane was a thick growth of small bushes. On the other side of the fence was Farmer Brown's cornfield. Of course, it was just bare brown earth covered with brown stubs of old cornstalks, but Johnny knew that later it would be planted.

On the other side of the Long Lane was a big meadow, where there would be plenty of clover. Then, too, it was not far up to Farmer Brown's barnyard, and that meant that enemies were not as likely to visit them as if their home were further away. It meant that they would have plenty of the best kinds of food, with less to worry about.

So together they worked as only

"I suppose," said Johnny, "that you mean to have our home right under that little tree."

"Of course," replied Polly Chuck.

"I suppose," said Johnny, "that you mean to have our home right under that little tree."

"I am glad to see that you have some common sense. There is just room between those two spreading roots, and those will prevent anyone from making the entrance any larger. This place was just made for us."

Without another word Polly Chuck began to dig. My, my, how she made the sand fly! It didn't seem any time at all before she had quite disappeared from sight. Presently she came out for a rest. Johnny took his turn at digging. He didn't feel much like digging, for he was tired, but he knew that they must have a place to spend the night. He knew that Polly wouldn't think of going way back to their old home on the edge of the dear Old Briar Patch.

TAILORED SUITS today are delightfully practical and cut on the simplest of lines. Brown gabardine composes one of these tailors which has a plain, straight skirt and a short jacket fastening on the left hip with a fancy medallion of brown silk braid. The jacket fastens on the left shoulder and the front has a simple braid medallion.

two chucks can work when they set out to. And by the time jolly, round, red Mr. Sun started to go to bed behind the Purple Hills they had that hie deep enough to feel reasonably safe in spending the night there.

"It is going to be a wonderful home," said Johnny Chuck, as they sat just outside it, resting. "I do believe it is going to be the best home we have ever had."

"I hope so," said Polly Chuck as she turned to enter it. "There ought to be plenty of good things to eat around here, and plenty of food is the first thing to think about."

Johnny shook his head. "You are wrong, Polly. Safety is the first thing to think about."

"Well, I guess we will have both, then," retorted Polly as she disappeared inside.

What About the Rockefeller "Spoonng" Inquiry?

The Post-Dispatch has received many letters of protest against the sending out of questionnaires by the Bureau of Social Hygiene of New York to women asking personal questions regarding their courtship days. This bureau was established by John D. Rockefeller Jr. Readers of the Women's Page are invited to discuss this interesting question in these columns. All letters should be brief and written on one side of the paper only

Double Value of Inquiry

To the Editor of the Woman's Page: The letter headed "A Student Speaks," I have found the most interesting and clear-minded judgment of the whole controversy, as far as I have followed it. Without any doubt whatsoever, the happiness and efficiency of the individual are intimately linked with his sex life, and no really wise man has ever denied its predominant importance in mankind's existence. And from this aspect every sincere research effort should be met with an understanding thankfulness. It's more light we need.

But will the Rockefeller "spoonng inquiry" bring us this badly needed light and help the course of human happiness, which certainly culminates in our married life? Will the inquiry be of any good at all? I most sincerely doubt it. For whatever result the inquiry will bring forth, I do not think it will better this day's morals or have any effect upon "spoonng."

And what about spoonng, anyway? Is it wrong for a girl to spoon? It certainly is human, and let us men, who do our spoonng without hesitation, be fair and tolerant. Or do we expect the girls never to look at any other boy before they become married, just so they can say, "Oh, Jack, I never thought of spoonng before I saw you?"

the first one they came in friendly conversation with. I rather believe a girl chooses—or thinks she does—the "best one" out of the lot. How could he be the "best one" if there was no choice, no spoonng? It is my opinion the inquiry would not have been brought forth if there wasn't such ridicule and ignorant prejudice about the entire sex life question.

Some persons think it's a good joke to have such an inquiry made, while others regard it as shameful. It is neither. But to my opinion, it is rather useless and a spoiling of time, for the statistics will never be correct. Far from it!

Or does anyone mean to tell me that all questions were absolutely, truthfully and honestly answered? Oh, dear! Just as the broad public opinion is divided pro and con, the response to those questions was the same. How many persons may there have been who regarded the inquiry as a "good joke" or as a hobby of John D. Jr. and his chums, and thus answered accordingly. I would bet my head that not 10 per cent of the answers were true and correct—especially in regard to the query, "How far did you go?" And while we are at it, I think it's the question itself that has gone too far, because there are some matters in human existence that are entirely private, and those are sex life and religion.

RUD PHILIPP.

Where Was the Man?

To the Editor of the Woman's Page:

It makes me laugh to think of just the woman telling how she spooned before she was married. Where was the man when she was spoonng? She certainly would have to spoon with a man. Why not ask the man how far he went in spoonng? I wonder if John D. Rockefeller Jr. ever spooned, and just how far he went.

Well, for mine, they can send out questionnaires, for I would not be ashamed to put on paper the facts of what spoonng I did in my single life.

CATHEDRAL FILLED AT FUNERAL OF BISHOP TUTTLE

Many, Unable to Gain Entrance, Stand Outside—Service Shortest Permitted by Ritual of Church.

CASKET IS MET BY ROBED CLERGY

Several Bishops Take Part in Conducting Rites—Flags at Half Mast on Municipal Buildings.

The funeral of Bishop Daniel Syllister Tuttle, head of the diocese of Missouri, and presiding Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, was held this afternoon in Christ Church Cathedral, the seat of his activity for the last 36 years of his episcopate. The Cathedral, which seats about 1000 persons, was filled closely, and many who could not gain entrance stood outside. Earlier in the day a line which passed through the cathedral aisles for two hours and a half viewed the Bishop's body, lying in state before the altar.

Flags at Half Mast.

Outside the Cathedral, flags were at half-mast before the Public Library and the Municipal buildings. The city's tribute of honor to the venerable churchman, who died Tuesday at the age of 84. Within the Bishop's white marble chair was a figure, in the robes of an ancient prophet, was to be seen among the sculptured saints in the recesses. Overhead, the banners of England and France, and farther in the nave those of other allied nations, still hung in token of a wartime fellowship that was wider than the bounds of creed. The funeral service, which was without a sermon, was the shortest permitted by the church's ritual. As the casket containing Bishop Tuttle's body was borne into the Cathedral, the second time today, it was met by a robed line of bishops and clergy. Bishop Boyd, Vincent of St. Louis, opening the service, pronounced the words of the Gospel of John: "I am the resurrection and the life; whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

"Lead Kindly Light" Sung.

The reading proceeded as the casket was carried slowly up the general aisle by the pallbearers, the Bishop's two sons, sons-in-law and three grandsons.

"Lord, let me know mine end and number of my days," the Scriptures continued. The days of our life are three-score years and ten; although men be so strong that their strength then but labor and sorrow, so soon passeth it away, and we are gone."

The music, which a few minutes before had been in the minor strains of the Chopin Funeral March, changed to a tone of hope and joy as the organ began playing "Lead Kindly Light: Amid the Encircling Arms, Lead Thou Me On." The hymn announced by Dean William Barrett of the Cathedral, was sung by choir and congregation. Bishop William Cabell Brown, chairman of the House of Bishops, read the epistle from the fifteenth chapter of the Corinthians.

"Now is Christ risen from the dead," the reading began, and in continued through the discourse of all upon immortality, to its climax: "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

His Favorite Hymn Sung.

The second hymn sung, Bishop Tuttle's favorite was "For All the Saints." Some of its stanzas are: "All the saints, who from their glory rest, At Thee by faith before the world confessed, O Jesus, be forever blest, Alleluia."

May Thy soldiers faithful, true and bold, Fight as the saints who nobly fought of old, And win with them, the victor's crown of gold. Alleluia.

About communion, fellowship dispensed, They freely struggle, they in glory shine. All are one in Thee, for all are Thine. Alleluia.

Earlier in the day a line which passed through the cathedral aisles for two hours and a half viewed the Bishop's body, lying in state before the altar.

Flags at Half Mast.

Outside the Cathedral, flags were at half-mast before the Public Library and the Municipal buildings. The city's tribute of honor to the venerable churchman, who died Tuesday at the age of 84. Within the Bishop's white marble chair was a figure, in the robes of an ancient prophet, was to be seen among the sculptured saints in the recesses. Overhead, the banners of England and France, and farther in the nave those of other allied nations, still hung in token of a wartime fellowship that was wider than the bounds of creed. The funeral service, which was without a sermon, was the shortest permitted by the church's ritual. As the casket containing Bishop Tuttle's body was borne into the Cathedral, the second time today, it was met by a robed line of bishops and clergy. Bishop Boyd, Vincent of St. Louis, opening the service, pronounced the words of the Gospel of John: "I am the resurrection and the life; whosoever believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

"Lead Kindly Light" Sung.

The reading proceeded as the casket was carried slowly up the general aisle by the pallbearers, the Bishop's two sons, sons-in-law and three grandsons.

"Lord, let me know mine end and number of my days," the Scriptures continued. The days of our life are three-score years and ten; although men be so strong that their strength then but labor and sorrow, so soon passeth it away, and we are gone."

The music, which a few minutes before had been in the minor strains of the Chopin Funeral March, changed to a tone of hope and joy as the organ began playing "Lead Kindly Light: Amid the Encircling Arms, Lead Thou Me On." The hymn announced by Dean William Barrett of the Cathedral, was sung by choir and congregation. Bishop William Cabell Brown, chairman of the House of Bishops, read the epistle from the fifteenth chapter of the Corinthians.

"Now is Christ risen from the dead," the reading began, and in continued through the discourse of all upon immortality, to its climax: "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory? Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

His Favorite Hymn Sung.

The second hymn sung, Bishop Tuttle's favorite was "For All the Saints." Some of its stanzas are: "All the saints, who from their glory rest, At Thee by faith before the world confessed, O Jesus, be forever blest, Alleluia."

May Thy soldiers faithful, true and bold, Fight as the saints who nobly fought of old, And win with them, the victor's crown of gold. Alleluia.

About communion, fellowship dispensed, They freely struggle, they in glory shine. All are one in Thee, for all are Thine. Alleluia.
